Reading One

THE LEGACY II

Grandfather never went to school spoke only a few words of English, a quiet man; when he talked talked about simple things

- 5 planting corn or about the weather
sometimes about herding sheep as a child.
One day pointed to the four directions
taught me their names
 El Norte
10 Poniente Oriente
 El Sud

He spoke their names as if they were one of only a handful of things
a man needed to know

- 15 Now I look back only two generations removed realize I am nothing but a poor fool who went to college

- 20 trying to find my way back to the center of the world where grandfather stood that day.

Reading Two

from GOING HOME

He walked slowly before the house, looking at it as if he might be a stranger, feeling alien and unrelated to it, yet feeling that it was home, the place he dreamed about, the place that tormented him wherever he went. He was afraid someone might come out of the house and see him, because he knew that if he was seen, he might find himself running away. Still, he wanted to see them, all of them, have them before his eyes, feel the full presence of their bodies, even smell them, that old strong Russian smell. But it was too much. He began to feel hatred for everything in the city, and he walked on, going to the corner. There he stood beneath the street lamp, bewildered and disgusted, wanting to see his brother Paul, to talk to the boy, find out what was going on in his mind, how he was taking it, being in such a place, living such a life. He knew how it had been with him when he had been his brother's age, and he hoped he might be able to give his brother a little advice, how to keep from feeling the monotony and the ugliness by reading.

He forgot that he hadn't eaten since breakfast, and that he had been dreaming for months of eating another of his mother's meals, sitting at the old table in the kitchen, seeing her, large and red-faced and serious and angry toward him, loving him, but he had lost his appetite. He thought he might wait at the corner; perhaps his brother would leave the house to take a walk and he would see the boy and talk to him. Paul, he would say, and he would talk to the boy in Russian.

The stillness of the valley began to oppress him, losing its piety, becoming merely a form of the valley's monotony.

Still, he couldn't go away from the house. From the corner he could see it, and he knew that he wanted to go in and be among his people, a part of their lives: he knew this was what he had wanted to do for months, to knock at the door, embrace his mother and his sisters, walk across the floors of the house, sit in the old chairs, sleep in his bed, talk with his old man, eat at the table.

MINOR ASSIGNMENT ONE

Personal Response Assignment (Suggested time: 15-25 minutes)

The poem “The Legacy II” and the excerpt from the story “Going Home” illustrate that the adults closest to us have a strong and lasting influence. In addition, these adults have stated or implied expectations of us.

Think of one adult who has had a significant influence on your life. What do you think that person expects of you? Why do you think he or she has those expectations?

MAJOR ASSIGNMENT

(Suggested time: 90-100 minutes)

“The Legacy II” and “Going Home” comment on the strong influence that family has on our emotional and psychological responses to ourselves, to others, and to life. This influence may be nurturing, restricting, or both.

COMPARE TWO SELECTIONS IN WHICH THE AUTHORS SHOW THAT INDIVIDUALS ARE AFFECTED BY AND ACT IN RESPONSE TO THE ATTITUDES AND VALUES OF THEIR FAMILIES.

Before planning your composition, read the guidelines below. They are designed to help you select and organize your ideas.

Guidelines for Writing

- CHOOSE YOUR SELECTIONS CAREFULLY FROM THOSE YOU HAVE STUDIED IN YOUR SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL ENGLISH CLASSES. The selections you choose may be poems, essays, short stories, plays, novels, other literature, or films.
- FOCUS YOUR COMPOSITION. One way of establishing a focus might be to make brief reference to “The Legacy II” and/or to “Going Home.” DO NOT LIMIT YOUR DISCUSSION TO THESE SELECTIONS.
- PLAN YOUR COMPOSITION CAREFULLY. Decide on an appropriate method of introducing, developing, and concluding your composition. Plan to support and develop your ideas with appropriate and specific detail. Although you are using two selections on which to base your composition, unify your ideas. Remember that a comparison may involve discussion of both similarities and differences. DO NOT present a plot summary.
- REVISE AND PROOFREAD YOUR COMPOSITION CAREFULLY.
